BEARCATS LOSE A THRILLING GAME

KIRKSVILLE TEACHERS NOSE OUT 21-19 VICTORY

EXTRA PERIOD OF PLAY

Egley Knots Score with Free Throw At Final Whistle—Another Game Tonight

After playing an extra five minute period the State Teachers College Bearcats lost a spectacular basketball game to the Kirksville Teachers on their court last night by a 21 to 19 score. When the game ended the score was 15 to 15 and an additional five minutes of play was necessary to determine the winner. No doubt can arise that the game was spectacular. In a telephone conversation after the game, Coach Maynor asid that it was one of the closest and fastest basketball games that he ever witnessed.

Time and again the crowd was brought to its feet by some spectacular shot. First one team would score and then the other. The ball shifted from one end of the court to the other. With the score tied the crowd of spectators was tense with excitement every time one of the teams paused for a free throw.

Thirty seconds before the game ended Kirksville counted from the field with the score 14 to 13 in favor of Maryville. It looked like a Kirksville victory but the ball was put in play and almost simultaneous with the final gun a Kirksville player was fouled for hacking.

The score was in favor of Kirksville but just by a point. And Maryville had a chance to tie it by shooting a free throw. "Joie" Egley, Maryville forward, went to the free throw line. It was lose or tie. If ever a team pulled for one man the Bearcats pulled for Egley and—Egley made good. The ball arched from his hands and dropped through the meshes. The score was tied.

In the extra period Kirksville made three field goals and Maryville scored twice. Then again, just before the gun went off, a Kirksville man fouled Leech. It was in the penalty zone and two free throws were allowed.

Again Egley went to bat but this time Old Lady Luck turned her back on him and both throws went bad.

The team had a lot to contend with yesterday. In the first place it was necessary to drive sixty-four miles to Pattonsburg to make a train. Then the train was three hours late. When it finally came the team boarded it and at last were on their way to Kirksville. However, a short distance out of Pattonsburg a bridge was burned out and the train was forced to wait until a train coming toward Pattonsburg arrived. After fording the river they took this train which was forced to move backwards for forty miles before it could turn around.

To make a long story short the team arrived in Kirksville at 8:30 and went immediately to the gymnasium and played the game without any supper and without any rest.

A failure on the port of Referee Lamke to strictly observe the rules cost the Bearcats two goals. The rules say that when a ball hits a backboard and then hits any object out of bounds that it is dead. Twice Kirksville shot at the goal and the ball, bouncing off hit a spectator. The Maryville team immediately stopped play and a Kirksville man recovered the ball and shot a goal. These two goals would have won the game.

The Maryville line up was: Leech and Egley, forwards; Brown, center and Kirby and Ellis, guards. In the second half Egley replaced Brown at center, Ellis went to forward and Wilson took his place at guard.

Egley and Leech each made three goals from the field and Ellis and Kirby counted once apiece. Egley made three free throws.

The team plays at Canton tonight, where they meet the Culver-Stockton team. Returns will be available at this office at 10:30 o'clock.

COOPER TO SPEAK ON 'SLATEN CASE'

BAPTIST PASTOR TO DISCUSS SUBJECT TOMORROW NIGHT

DISMISSED FROM CHURCH

After Dr. Slaten Was Dismissed from William Jewell, Church Excluded Him and Mrs. Slaten

The dismissal of Dr. Arthur Wakefield Slaten from the faculty of William Jewell College at Liberty and the exclusion of him and Mrs. Slaten from the Baptist Church there has caused considerable comment over the country and has been the subject of much discussion in Maryville. The action against Dr. and Mrs. Slaten came as a result of their announced disbelief in the divinity of Christ, his resurrection and the adoption of trinity in matters concerning the Holy Ghost. The Rev. J. A. Cooper, pastor of the First Baptist Church will speak tomorrow night upon the "Slaten case." Mr. Cooper has the following to say about the case.

"Seldom has an incident of college and church life attracted so much attention as the dismissal a few days ago of Dr. A. W. Slaten from the faculty of William Jewell College and the subsequent dropping of the names of Dr. and Mrs. Slaten from the roll of the Liberty Baptist Church. The action of the Board of Trustees was taken after the publication by Dr. Slaten of a book in which he set forth such doctrines and beliefs as to call down upon him, even in this day of liberalism, the charge of heresy. Upon his dismissal from the faculty of William Jewell College Dr. Slaten returned to Chicago to finish a Greek book he had been working upon, and the withdrawal of the hand of fellowship from him and from Mrs. Slaten by the church at Liberty took place upon their request for letters of dismissal from the church."

"This case has attracted attention in all parts of the country, articles and editorials being written with it as a basis in leading daily papers throughout the United States. On the whole the action of the Board of Trustees has been well received, even in quarters not interested in the church or the denominational college, and considering the theme the facts of the case have been unusually well set forth in the daily press."

"In a few places, however, the old cry of academic freedom has been raised, and in more places there has been heard the question as to the justice of the action of the Liberty Church. With these points in mind and in the desire to set forth as clearly as possible the true situation as regards Dr. Slaten, the College, and the Church I shall speak to-morrow night upon the Slaten case, as it has come to be called, at the same time taking opportunity to call attention to certain tendencies in religious thinking current today.

In the city cases of Grover Hatcher and Clyde Horn, who are charged with transporting and possessing intoxicating liquor and which were appealed to circuit court, the defendants have filed a motion to suppress the evidence for the reason a search warrant was not obtained by the authorities in searching an automobile of Hatcher and Horn in Maryville on January 29, 1922.

The motion stated "the authorities seized certain articles without authority and removed said articles and things from auto in violation of the 11th and 23rd section of article 2 of the Constitution of the State of Missouri and of the 4th and 5th Amendments of the Constitution of the United States. The defendants states articles so wrongfully seized are held by the city as evidence in the case."

The motion asks that all evidence obtained by such wrongfuly and unlawful seizure be suppressed and parties be prohibited from testifying to any facts or information obtained by such proceeding.

HARRISON, ARK. AGAIN QUIET TRADING CENTER OF DISTRICT

People Flock in Today for Marketing—Investigation of Disturbance to Continue.

Harrison, Ark., Jan. 20.—The "war" of Crooked Creek Valley is over today. Harrison, "battle front" of the 365 mile area marked by the irregular right-of-way of the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, was again a trading center of the mountainous countryside on "market day." For the first time this week, the country folk drove their mule wagons to the town hall. Rotary Hall, which since last Monday has been the scene of the "citizens' court," that has ruled with an iron hand over the district, is empty. The citizens' committee ,three from each of the four counties along the right-of-way of the M. and N. A. road, have returned to their home and families over Sunday.

"Monday we will resume our investigation," said Sam Dennis, president of the citizens' court, this morning. The grand jury, which has been in session, also adjourned and will continue its investigation January 9, according to Judge Shinn of the "war zone" and at that time they will delve into the acts of the "citizens' army."

GRAHAM WINS DEBATE FROM MARYVILLE HIGH LAST NIGHT

Mary Gex and Charles Zapht Win Decision Over Louise Peery and Richard Baker in Argument

The debate between the Maryville and Graham debating teams held at the High School, last night resulted in a decision for the visitors. The subject was: Resolved, that the Government Should Own and Operate the Coal Mines. The affirmative side was taken by the Maryville team, composed of Louise Peery and Richard Baker. The Graham team, which was composed of Mary Gex and Charles Zapht, argued in favor of the negative.

The affirmative team maintained that the mines are operated by a group of capatalists who think only of profit, and that the government should stop the waste of coal. The negative side argued that the Government is not able to buy and operate the mines and that the present coal supply is inexhaustible.

The decision of the judges was two to one in favor of the negative. Homer T. Phillips, Burt Loomis and Miss Mattie Dykes of the College were the judges.

IN BASKETBALL GAMES PLAYED LAST NIGHT

BOYS TEAM WENT WELL

And the Girls Dropped a Game by Two Points Losing by 17 to 15 Score

The Maryville High School basketball teams split a pair of basketball games last night, winning the boys game from St. Joseph Benton here and losing the girls game to the College Springs, Ia., high school team at College Springs. The scores were 32 to 21 and 15 to 17 respectively.

Playing their first game of the season the high school boys showed such a brilliancy of passing and shooting that the outcome of the game was in doubt only for the first five minutes. Benton started the scoring with a field goal by Sherman which was followed not thirty seconds by a neat shot by Fannon of the locals. Then another field goal by Fannon gave Maryville a two point lead and shortly after the Maryville centertossed a free flip. Then Benton scored from the field making the score 5 and 4. This was the closest that the visitors came to tying it.

Coach Lawrence's men played well, individually and as a team. The passing was good and the shooting was accurate. However there are still a number of rough spots that will have to be worn off before the boys will be working as they should. The short pass was not used enough and at times the men were prone to hold the ball too long before passing it. But just the same the team looked mighty sweet for the first game and by the time that they are running in high and are in mid-season form it will be hard for any high school team to show them up.

There were no individual stars. At times it looked like one man was playing harder and better than the others but no sooner than a judgment was made as to his brilliancy than one of the others would take the laurels from him by some bit or bits of neat basketball.

The pivot proved a potent factor in the victory. Time and again when it looked like a Benton player would intercept the man with the ball and it would be a toss up, the Maryville man would whirl and lo and behold, he would be free. Voila—the pivot.

The game was refereed by O. S. Wood of Central high school in St. Joseph. Mr. Wood did a good job of calling 'em and few fouls or infractions passed his eagle eyes.

The score:

MARYVILLE (32)

	G.	F.T.
Ogden, f	2	0
Masters, f	5	0
Roelofson, f	0	0
Fannon, c	6	6
O'Banion, g	0	0
Total	13	6

BENTON (21)

	G.	F.T.
Wier, f	1	0
Sherman, f	4	0
Lytle, f	2	0
Thrailkill, c	2	3
Wells (Capt.), g	0	0
Sawyers, g	0	0
Total	9	3

The high school girls lost their game by a margin of two points. They met a strong team with perhaps a little better floor work and they lost. In speaking of the game Miss Nash, the coach, said, "Now don't you print any alibis. We just got beat, that's all. I think we can beat them on our court. But don't you go and offer a lot of excuses for our losing."

The College Springs court was much smaller than the one at the high school and that handicapped the team to some extent.

The line-up that started the game played all through it. The girls who played were Dow and Jones, forwards; New and Murray, centers; and O'Banion and Pugh, guards.

He was released by a parole from Judge Daniel H. Wooley, newly elected judge of the circuit court. At the same time under the order of Judge Wooley, August Dorchy, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of Kansas, Jack Flemming, Peter Maxwell, Williard Titus and Jack McIlrocuch were freed.

All the men released were sentenced to serve jail sentences several months ago by Judge Curran for contempt of court. He sentenced them to serve "until they were ready to obey the mandates of the Industrial Court. Wooley defeated Curran for re-election, who was solidly opposed by union labor. A handful of miners were present at the jail to greet the men when they were released. An announcement was made this afternoon that a celebration would be held throughout the mining district for the release of the men. Howat will speak at the celebration to be held tomorrow at Franklin, fifteen miles north of Pittsburg. Howat went straight to his home immediately after his release.

Pittsburg, Kan., Jan. 20—Judge Wooley today ordered the release at Girard, Kansas of Alexander Howat and August Dorchy, former president and vice-president, respectively, of the United Mine Workers of America, now serving jail terms at Girard for contempt of court in refusing to answer questions in proceedings under the Industrial Court of Kansas.

Wooley also ordered the release of all the members of the executive committee for the Kansas district, who have been confined. The men were sent to jail by Judge Curran several months ago for contempt of court when they violated the laws of the Industrial Court by failing to answer questions in court. Judge Curran was defeated for re-election, labor throwing its support to Judge Wooley, who assumed office Monday.

5000 RUHR MINERS RETURN TO WORK

BUT COAL OUTPUT THIS WEEK WAS REDUCED BY HALF

5 MINE OWNERS ARRESTED

Are Taken Before French Military Tribunal—Germans Protest to General De Goutte

Essen, Jan. 20.—Five directors of Ruhr mines at Bredney were arrested today and taken to Dusseldorf for arraignment before the French military tribunal, accused of refusing to obey the Franko-Belgian-Italian industrial commission.

Hugo Stinnes, great industrial magnate, has left his Rhineland home and is said to be in Berlin. Five thousand miners who went on a strike, returned to their work today. The miners' council has appointed a commission to call upon General DeGoutte, French commander-in-chief at Dusseldorf, to make a formal demand of the withdrawal of French troops.

The first week's occupation of the Ruhr has reduced the output of coal more than one-half. The French are confident that the offer of steady work, good wages and fair treatment will induce the majority of miners to remain at work. The feeling is intense though, because the French patrols have fired upon the Germans.

S. T. C. GIRLS PLAY HARDIN TONIGHT AT HIGH SCHOOL GYM.

Will Be First Game of Season for Locals—Hardin Has Won One and Tied One

The State Teachers College girls basketball team, state champions last year, will make its first appearance of the 1923 season tonight in a game with the Hardin College team from Mexico. The game will be played in the Maryville high school gymnasium and will start at 8 o'clock.

Miss MacLeod, the College coach, announced today that the following line-up would start the game: M. Raines and Garten, forwards; McNeil and Miller, centers; and Kennedy and Hardwick, guards. Evelyn Raines at forward and Hazel Pugh at guard will probably get into the game before the final whistle.

Miss MacLeod has material which should provide another championship team this year. Four members of last year's team are out again this year as well as some exceptional high school material of last year.

The Hardin team arrived in Maryville this morning on the 5 o'clock Wabash train. Coach Miss Katherine Hanna brought nine girls with her on the trip.

This will be the third game for the Hardin girls. They have met the Farver and Hannibal high school teams. The first of these games, with the Farver team, resulted in a win for the Hardin girls by a 31 to 19 score. In the Hannibal-Hardin game the score was a 17 to 17 tie.

The girls, who made the trip from Hardin were Misses Smith, Tilton, Twidwell, Torter, Allison, Bartlett, Todd, Chearrs and Johnson.

The game tonight is expected to be a fast, hard-fought contest as the local girls are bent on starting a victrious season and the visitors were sent here to bring home the bacon and they are going to try and do so.

The officials of the game will be O. S. Wood, St. Joseph Central, referee; Clifford M. Hull, Maryville Tribune, timer ;and William Mapel, Democrat-Forum, scorer.

COUE'S CURE

Emil Coue, the auto-suggestion apostile from Nancy, is here to expound his theories of mental cure for cureable diseases. A self-educated man who claims to have lost his rheumatic pains just two years ago by the same treatment he wishes others to adops, the progress of his tour will be watched with interest throughout the country.

Like Joan of Arc who suddenly became aware of almost super-natural powers, Coue's transmogrification from Nancy druggist and gardner to apostle of cure by mental concentration was swift and complete. Two years ago he was placidly engaged in a small druggist's business in his home in France, dividing his time between the drug business, a garden of flowers and the latest cures for rheumatism. Almost overnight he became a figure of worldwide repute.

Oddly enough, Coue got his idea for the cult from an American pamphlet that cost him exactly 30 francs. The pamphlet was in the nature of a testimonial from a Rochester, N. Y., man who became miraculously cured through the powers of auto-suggestion. In spite of scoffing friends, Coue says he adopted the treatment and was cured.

Coue's apparent willingness to work hand in hand with the medical profession should go far toward obviating any opposition that might arise. But as his tour progresses, the strength of Coue's doctrines will be subjected to a severe test.

The lightest form of money is sometimes mighty hard to raise.

Without being personal at all, it will take more than paint to make some ladies pretty.

Congress used to spend a lot of money on free seeds thinking they would sprout into votes.

The power of suggestion is a great thing. We know a man who was told that he was sick. He couldn't feel right after that until he paid an Xray man fifteen dollars to tell him he wasn't sick at all. This may be termed co-operative suggestion.

Governor Hyde has asked for the resignations of all his appointees so that he will have them in case they do not perform as he thinks they should. Why wouldn't the same rule be desirable as to governors? Let them deposit their resignations with the proper officials to be accepted when the people do not like their administrations.

Senator Proctor has introduced a bill in the state senate to modify the primary election laws. His bill would provide for the nomination of state officers, judges of the supreme court and judges of the appellate courts by a state convention to be made up of delegates to be elected at a state wide primary to be held in June instead of August. The chief objections to the present system are the great burden of expense to candidates for the state offices and the great expense to the state in holding statewide primaries. The principle of getting a direct expression from the people is very desirable but in the case of state offices in a state the size of Missouri it is impossible for any candidate not already well known, to become personally and correctly known to even fifty per cent of the people. The bill proposed by Senator Proctor would, in a measure relieve the candidates of some of the strenuousness of their campaigns and perhaps get a stronger class of nominations better distributed over the state but whether it meets all the objections to the present system it is difficult to say. The matter of making the nominations in June instead of August is another debatable question.

It is reported an organization for the protection of the dandelion corp will be formed here by prominent and highly respected home brewers.

BILL FOR AID OF COUNTIES

Jefferson City, Jan. 20—A bill to grant half the income, corporation franchise and inheritance tax money received by the state to counties to be used by them in paying their local expenses, was introduced in the House Wednesday by Representative Phil Donnelly of Lebanon, a Democrat. This measure is inspired by the poor financial condition of some of the interior counties of the state.

Fifty Years Ago

The county court and the Nodaway County Fair directors have each been in session this week, but too late for us to publish the proceedings. Will attend to it next week.

On last Friday evening, John Groves, Sr., living one mile south of Guilford, had the misfortune to have his house burn to the ground. Most of the house furniture was saved but everything in the kitchen was destroyed. The house was worth about $1,200 and, so far as we can learn, was not insured, a fire policy having expired recently.

Father Power of Conception, passed through St. Joseph one day last week, on his way to Jerusalem. He has a long, toilsome trip before him, but one that promises to be amply repaid by the interest centered in the country he visits.

On Monday evening we took a hasty run down the road to Barnard, and shook hands and asked after the health of its citizens. We found the town in a prosperous condition, and hoping for more prosperity in the future. Solomon Hartsell is about buying out Mrs. McFarland, and expects to move to Barnard and will keep a boarding house, and will also open a furniture store soon.

Efforts are being made to build a church edifice for the use of the Methodists and Presbyterians, and the object will probably be accomplished the present year.

The Farmers and Dairymen's Club of Union township met at the school house in the town of Pickering, January 7th, and held their business session. The club passed the following resolution: "Resolved—that a special meeting of the club be held for agricultural implement factory and distribution of garden seeds, on Monday, the 3rd of February at 7 P. M., and that all the stockholders and members of the club be present.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

J. T. Welch on Saturday bought the Union Bus Line property and business of Ford & Fink, and took possession of the same at the close of its business on that day. Mr. Fink is the proprietor of the Linville Hotel, in which business he continues. Mr. Ford will engage again in the buying of horses and mules for the eastern and other markets.

The Presbyterian Church will put in a fine pipe organ into their church. The money has been raised for that purpose.

The many friends of Will R. Nealeigh will regreat to learn that continued ill health has made it necessary to sell his business in Maryville. F. P. Reuillard, his partner, bought his interest, thus making him sole proprietor.

The new M. E. Church at Graham is to cost $6,000. Wes Rodman of Skidmore is the contractor and Alex Searcy of this city the architect.

Maryville's sixth rural delivery route will begin service in February. It will serve 460 people and will be in a northwest direction from Maryville.

WANTS MIRRORS PLACED IN ALL SCHOOL ROOMS

Ohio Official Says Pupils Do Not Realize How Untidy They Look at Times.

Lima, Ohio, Jan. 20—The placing of a looking glass in every schoolroom is advocated by Dr. John J. Sutter, Allen County Health Commissioner.

"A looking-glass has a distinct educational value," said Dr. Sutter. "Children who are frequently reprimanded for their untidiness and uncleanliness scarcely ever see themselves, thus losing the strong personal incentive to improvement which they might have if they had the opportunity of contrasting their own untidy appearance with the neatness displayed by their school fellows."

ALBRIGHT SCHOOL HAS GOOD COMMUNITY MEET LAST NIGHT

Helping the Dealer to Sell

Every manufacturer appreciates, in some degree, the importance of helping the retailer sell his product. And yet in many instances that degree is very small. It can hardly be compared in importance—so thinks a certain type of manufacturer—with selling the product to the dealer.

It is nothing short of a false assumption, unsound and untrustworthy, to think that merely stocking up the dealer with a product constitutes effective distribution. Effort of that kind, it is true, may dispose of a lot of goods, but it does not sell them. Unless the consumer comes in prepared or disposed to buy them they will remain on the shelf of the dealer, re-orders will be impossible, and the whole product will be a failure.

The safest alternative is for the manufacturer to create a consumer demand through Advertising. This will help the dealer move the goods, and then he will order more.

Advertising is as much a basic part of the business of the manufacturer of any specific trade-marked products as is production and distribution. It is not something that can be considered merely as an expense to be curtailed to the minimum. It is a creative influence which, more than any other thing after the merit of the product, determines the extent of the consumer demand.

Too often the manufacturer thinks of his advertising as a clever means of impressing the dealer with the desirability of stocking up with his goods, and he does enough to accomplish that effect, and then expects the dealer to move the goods. This is a mistaken use of advertising and it quickly reacts upon the manufacturer.

It is the business of the dealer to provide the goods which the public demand. He would be foolish to do otherwise, and would soon cease to be a dealer. It is the business of the manufacturer—meaning specifically, the manufacturer of a trade-marked article, or one that might be trade-marked—to create a consumer demand by means of Advertising.

Declaring the conditions confronting farmers of the United States are "more menacing than any similar conditions in the history of American agriculture," the Corn Belt committee in Kansas City last night made public resolutions urging congress to create a price-fixing commission for farm products.

The committee was formed at a conference last week of representatives of the Farmers' union, the Missouri Farmers' association and the Equity Exchange of St. Paul. It is composed of leading farmers from Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska and Minnesota.

Formation of the committee is said by its organizers to mark the first extensive pooling of interests by the self-help farm organizations of the central states.

Text of Resolution Adopted

The resolution asks congress to do these things:

First—To create a commission which shall regulate as equitably as is humanly possible the price of wheat, corn, pork, beef and cotton to the current price of merchandise and other materials which enter into the farmer's cost of production and to the prevailing wage scales of organized labor.

Second—To adjust the tariff so that the above mentioned products may be protested against imports at a lower price.

Third—To create governmental machinery which shall take over the surplus of each of these commodities at whatever the world price may be, or by some other means remove the influence of such surplus, to the end that the home markets may be preserved for the farmer on the basis of American living standards and at the same time to provide a powerful deterrent against over production and also protect the government against loss.

Desire Equalization of Dollar

Referring to the pending proposals in Washington to grant a further extension of credit to the farmer, the committee says in a statement:

"While we naturally welcome all sounds and equitable legislation of this character, we desire to remind congress that this alone can not rescue agriculture from the grave conditions which now menace it.

"We are not asking for a subsidy or special favors. We are asking merely that the dollar paid to the farmer shall be as big as the dollar which he is compelled to pay for the wares created by industry and labor, freight rates, taxes, etcetera.

Cite Methods in Other Countries

"France has recently edubled her tariff on grain, while Spain has fixed a price of $2.20 a bushel on wheat, and Switzerland has granted a subsidy of 60 cents a bushel upon the same grain."

Among those who participated in the recent conference here were John Tromble, president of the Farmers' union of Kansas, Milo Reno, president of the Farmers union of Iowa; John Lambor, president of the Farmers' union of Illinois; J. M. Anderson, head of the Equity exchange of St. Paul, and Howard A. Cowden, general secretary of the Missouri Farmers' association.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert McKee of near Orrsburg were visitors in Maryville today.

Can't Get His Wages in His Pocket

Prior to the great depreciation of the mark in Germany, it was possible for a workman to get his weekly wages in his pockets. Now that there is little or no silver in circulation and labor is being paid in paper it requires more room than ordinary pockets. The photograph shows a German baker receiving his weekly wage which he is placing in a cigar box.

A NEW MOTOR BILL WAS INTRODUCED

REPRESENTATIVE PLANS TO STOP CARELESS DRIVING

WOULD REVOKE LICENSES

All Violators of State Regulations Would Have Licenses Taken Away

Jefferson City, Jan. 20. — The commissioner of motor vehicles would be permitted to revoke the license of careless motorists after they had been convicted once of violating the state law, according to the provisions of a bill introduced by Representative McGregor of Brookfield. The present motor vehicle law, requiring three convictions before a license may be cancelled, has been found to be valueless in reducing death and injuries from accidents.

According to Charles U. Becker, secretary of state, who has control of the motor car bureau, local court officials refuse to report convictions. Also it is impossible now to connect the careless motorist with accidents in different localities.

Another bill by McGregor would provide a penalty for court officials who fail to report convictions in local courts.

The series of measures amending the motor vehicle law passed at the last session have the approval of Roy Britton, representing the Automobile Club of Missouri, and of the secretary of state.

Becker said the state loses from $300,000 to $400,000 a year from motorists who refuse to obtain state licenses or obtain fake license plates. The large number of Kansas licenses on cars in Kansas City and the foreign licenses on St. Louis cars has led to the belief false license plates are being sold. Becker believes many Kansas City motorists buy Kansas plates because they are cheaper.

To check the license frauds, one of the bills introduced would provide a penalty against prosecutors, sheriffs and constables who refuse to enforce the motor vehicle law. Another bill provides a penitentiary sentence for manufacturing bogus license plates. Also it would be a misdemeanor for a motor car owner to buy his license from another state.

McGregor also proposes to increase the number of state inspectors from three to ten and increase their salaries from $1800 to $2400. According to Becker, the present number of inspectors are too few. He said the three now employed have collected $100,000 each in unpaid licenses.

Becker said another bill would be prepared to require persons obtaining a license after August 1 to file an affidavit he did not use the car before that date. He is considering now some method to prevent the splitting of license plates. After this year, the license plates for rear and front may be made so they cannot be used on two cars.

VOTE ON CONSOLIDATION OF SCHOOLS AT ELMO.

The patrons of the Elmo consolidated school district are holding an election today for the purpose of determining whether the school shall continue. Some little dispute has arisen in the district as to the school levy, there being some farmers in the district who believe that the consolidated school is a burden on the taxpayers.

It is claimed by members of the board of education that with all buildings in good condition, the tax in the Elmo consolidated district can be lowered next year to about a 60-cent basis, which would be almost a record for the county. Some comparative school levies given in the Register last week show that out of four districts taken for comparison purposes, Elmo, with a levy of 94 cents stands lowest; Hopkins next at $1.00; Graham, $1.20, and Burlington Junction, $1.60.

Folks like to pamper the prodigal son

But no one as yet has been able to get Any veal for his prodigal daughter
—From "The Rhymed Reflections of Elder Twiggs."

A FEW years ago the Beasly girl worked in the overall factory. She was a pretty girl then, and naturally the neighbors talked about her, for the people who live along Jersey Creek are really no better than they who live on Independence avenue, in spite of the theories that poverty and charity go together. So when she left the factory the women of the Jersey Creek neighborhood hinted that the foreman had been too polite to her. But if she had remained at the factory they would have given the same reason for her staying. After that, she went to the theater with young men who turned up their coat collars and wore their hands in their pockets in the fall and spring, in lieu of overcoats. During the summer, following her discharge from the overall factory she became a park fiend.

When she gave up her counter in the cheap dry-goods store, she remained at home, apparently keeping house for her father. He worked in "the shops" somewhere over in "the bottoms," and came home tired and grimy at night, and went to bed early. He slept in the room off the kitchen, and his daughter slept in the front room. He did not know when she came in at night, and he did not think of caring to know. Her father paid no attention to the little brother and sister who teased the daughter at table about the young men who frequented the house. If the other members of the family had been plaguing the ten-year-old girl who led in the raillery, the father would have been equally heedless of their chatter. The eldest daughter made him very happy by simple tenderness, though, of course, he did not understand that his warmth for her and the longing which he felt all day to get home for supper, was happiness.

But, unconsciously, his daughter grew very necessary to him. He was not of the world that analyzes its emotions, yet he could not fail to see her beauty, nor to be proud of her for it; and when she was dressed to go out—and she went out early and often—his pride blinded him to the gaudiness of her clothes, her frowzy hair, and the shocking make-up on her pretty face. Probably his discernment was not keen enough to see these faults, even had he not been so fond of her. But other fathers who had daughters saw these things, and mothers of the neighborhood who had sons did not mention the Beasly girl in the family circle. It was only after Miss Beasly had joined a comedy company, organized to play the "White Slave" and "Only a Farmer's Daughter" through the West, that her name was mentioned at all freely by Jersey Creek's aristocracy, and then it was as if she were dead. And Mrs. Hinkley, who took care of the children and looked after the lonely old man, often said to inquiring women of the neighborhood, "It would break your heart to see Mr. Beasly a-grievin' an' a-grievin' for that hussy; an' whinever he gets a letter from her he reads it at the supper table before them children wid that flourish you'd think—teh, teh, teh, I do wonder if he knows." And after some discussion she would sigh, "Well, it's not for me to tell him."

What a wonderful thing is absence. It is like the dark in its power to transform people and situations and the relations of things. Though she had grown up under his eyes, the old man and his daughter had scarcely spoken a serious word to each other. The father had never inquired what his daughter was or was not. She was only "her" in his thought. They were strangers, but when he began to forget her presence, he found himself continually thinking of things he would like to say to her. "Her" disappeared, and dreams altogether different from his former conception of her, took her place. He longed for her, and yearned to tell her the great love in his heart. Among the noisy wheels, he mumbled to himself, speeches that he wanted to make to her, and in the scrawled letter he sent her occasionally, he wrote some of these tender things.

One day she wrote that she was coming home for a vacation, and his heart was very glad. He read and re-read the letter, and droned it off at the supper table to Mrs. Hinkley and the children. As he read it, neither the hearers nor the reader realized how much feeling the writer had put into the matter-of-fact words, "I want to be home with you all again." These words were meant to tell a story of heartache and loneliness and despair, but they were commonplace and fell short. For poor people are as blunt in sensibility as the comfortably rich, and the suggestion to Mrs. Hinkley of the possibility of any human feeling in the Beasly girl's heart would have fallen on barren soil.

When the day for the girl's coming arrived, Mrs. Hinkley was gone from the Beasly home, but the old man had "laid off" a day from his work. He was joyful in the hope that he might say some of the tender things he had written, and then keep up the new happiness that had come to him, yet he feared that his daughter would be so far above him that she would not care for it. He put on his best suit of clothes, and sent the children away. The house was in conspicuous "company order"; he arranged things himself, and a Sunday stiffness and quiet prevailed. He sat in the front room waiting for her. When he heard voices at the fence, he recognized that of his daughter, and his pulse quickened; but when he looked through the curtain and saw a stranger with her, his heart sank.

Father and daughter met at the door; he held out his hand to her and she passed in, followed by the stranger, while the father said awkwardly, "Well, Allie"—and after a pause, "how are you?"

A smile inclosed the commonplace answer, and the old man continued in a high-keyed tone with the upward inflection, looking vacantly at the dapper stranger who had not been introduced, "I s'pose you've been gettin' to be such a grand lady—" He laughed nervously, and with conscious embarrassment. The daughter seated her guest, and the father, with a feint at cheer, chirped, "Well, you're lookin' hale and hearty."

"Is there anything in the cupboard, pa?" asked the girl, as she took off her soiled gloves and threw her long, shabby cloak and her expensive, but betowsled hat upon the bed. "I am just dyin' for a bite; we didn't get any breakfast." The old man went to get something, and when he returned the stranger was gone. She did not taste what he had brought, but turned and threw her arms about his neck; there were tears in her eyes as she said, "Oh, pa—pa—ain't it good to be back again!"

The father, summoning all his courage to break away from the common words of welcome began again in a quavering, nervous voice, "Well, Allie—I guess 'at mebby you—you think someway that yer daddy has forgot you, but—Allie, I tell you, I—do you know, I think a whole lot of you." It was the best he could do, but he kissed her, and that was something—it was a great deal for both of them. Then they relaxed, and talked of the children, about whom she asked a great deal, and of the neighbors, about whom she asked nothing.

The "Comedy Company" had

failed, and she was at home to stay. Her absence had made both father and daughter understand how much each was to the other. The little signs of endearment did not vanish as the days wore on. She smoothed his hair when she passed him, and he caught her dress and touched her simply with his hand as she came near him at her work. So much was his heart wrapped up in her that he did not notice the absence of the neighbors from the house, and when he asked them to come, and laughingly upbraided them for their social carelessness, he accepted their explanations with no thought of their insincerity.

His pride in her knew no conventionality and no propriety. Once, when the boys in the shop were eating their noonday lunch in the shade of the building, he looked up from a piece of pie to say in a lull of the conversation, "You fellers may talk all you want to about your purty girls, but I bet I've got one at home 'at 'll beat all yours put together. Some o' you young fellers orto come out an' see her." And when the fellows winked at one another and set up a laugh, the old man laughed, too, and said, "That's what I said; and I didn't smile when I said it; she's the purtiest girl you ever saw—ef her dad does say so."

He told her that night how they had laughed, and how he had "stuck to his words and made them shut up," but she was bending over the stove in the dark corner, and he could not see the flash in her eyes, and the quick quiver of hate that curled the muscles of her upper lip. The old man and the children prattled on until she composed herself, and joined the family group.

That night she tossed in her bed and turned her feverish pillow a hundred times. She cursed the world, its people, and its social arrangement. She wanted to make people suffer. Her father's disgrace, and the thought that she could not defend him made her frantic. When it was nearly morning she cried herself to sleep, brooding over her own personal sorrow. She was awakened by her father scraping the ashes from the kitchen stove, and her heart rose to her throat with great love for him. During that entire day the girl held her sister in her mind as she went about her household duties. It seemed to her that her life with him was really worth living, and she was glad that since her return she had sent her old companions away. Yet her hand was raised against the world—her narrow world that is the epitome of the great narrow world—because it persecuted her and pointed its finger at the one being she loved. But the very fact that her father was set apart from his fellows because of her drew him close to her. And the night thoughts followed her all through the day, till she longed for his return. It was a good day in her life.

She heard his footsteps on the walk in front, and heard him coming around the house to the kitchen door. When he crossed the threshold she kissed him. The old man was a little abashed at the suddenness of it, but he was pleased. He took a chair and sat in the back yard leaning against the house. From there he talked with her through the open door. They had passed the usual questions of the day, when the old man said, "Allie, y' can't guess what Mrs. Hinkley said about you this evening." The daughter blanched as she stood in the doorway, and said nothing. It was dusk, and the old man did not notice her. "She said, sez she, 'Mr. Beasly, do you know that you are doin' wrong to keep Allie in the house there?' I says, 'Why so, Mrs. Hinkley?' and she wouldn't say nothin' but 'Well, y' are, that's all.' I s'pose Mrs. Hinkley thinks that 'cause you're grown to be so purty an'—an' all that—you're ashamed to stay here in Jersey with your old daddy." Strange things were crowding into the girl's mind—a fearful immastery in her heart. Then the temptation came with her father's question. "But you ain't ashamed to stay with your poor, honest ol' pap, are y', Allie?"

There was a short silence. As it lengthened into a distinct pause the man's heart was shot with fear. He felt remorse wrap him about—remorse and humiliation. He sprang lamely from the leaning chair to his feet and staggered to the door, crying piteously with woe in his voice, "Oh, Allie, Allie—my—my little girl. Allie! We'll move, Allie; we'll move."

He came to her and stood helplessly before her. He could not know why she was dumb. He misunderstood and was turning away in a slow agony of shame, when her love for him swept her as upon a wave into his arms, sobbing.

She recovered quickly, and hastened to a sputtering pan which she pretended needed her attention. The old man touched her dress in his wonted way, as he passed her going toward the door. He hesitated, and seemed to have another protest upon his lips. The daughter felt that she could not keep her sorrow back if he spoke. The old man did not note the pathetic tremble in her voice as she cried to her little sister, playing at the door:

"Jen-nee, Jennie, o-o-h Jennie, you go cut me a switch; I got to tend to your pa. He's makin' me spoil this supper." She added in a firmer voice, "The very idee of our movin'."

And the old man, looking back with a smile, went into the twilight full of joy.

Lacked Press Agents.

The king ordered all the men to take the field. The chancellor tremblingly approached the throne and whispered something, but his majesty shook his head impatiently.

"Let the publicity end be taken care of by the women and children."

"But the women and children," ventured the chancellor, "will have all they can do to till the soil, operate the factories, keep the bourses open, and so forth."

"Then let the publicity end take care of itself!" the king insisted stubbornly.

The result was about what you might expect. The war was fought with valor and brilliancy, but when it passed into history it did so with almost a total lack of anything like distinction.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

EDSEL FORD PREDICTS HEAVY BUYING OF CARS THIS YEAR.

Motor Car Magnate Says Demand This Year Will Be Greater Than in History of Industry.

Edsel B. Ford, president of Ford Motor Co., reveals new condition facing manufacturers. Survival of the fittest his conception of period ahead.

"The demand for automobiles during 1923 will be greater than during any other year in the history of the motor car industry." This statement made by Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, is based upon an analysis recently made in connection with the sales of Ford and Lincoln motor cars.

"But the race is going to the sure and not the swift," he added with a characteristic touch of caution. "It is to be a case of the survival of the fittest and the manufacturer who rushes in with a desire to get a lot of sales without consideration of what he gives in return for the owners' confidence placed in his product is not likely to find the year a success.

"The demand is coming from a more concentrated sales effort on the part of manufacturers and dealers. Even with all the cars now running, there are hundreds of thousands of potential owners in all parts of the country who have yet to buy their first car.

"Dealers and manufacturers have been content to skim the cream off the top of the market and now are engaged in the business of trading rather than in the development of new car owners.

"But the change is on the way. We have sensed it for months at the Ford Motor Co., both as it relates to Lincoln cars and to Fords.

"All our efforts have been devoted to building better, to increasing the actual value offered in the products we build. Only upon such a basic and serious consideration can owner or buyer confidence be permanently maintained. When the natural reaction on the part of the buying public expresses itself in steadily increasing demand for a product the matter of price automatically takes care of itself.

"Recent price reductions on Ford products in the face of the heaviest demand we have ever known, came as the natural result of savings through constantly increasing production.

"When I say that the demand for cars during the year will be greater than ever before, I speak from facts compiled in an exhaustive study of car purchasing conditions throughout the entire country. The past two months, ordinarily termed months of low purchasing, have seen steadily increasing rather than diminishing orders, not from any one section but from all parts of the country.

"Seasonal buying is on the decline. There have been too many times when the car buying could not get delivery because he waited in placing his order, to warrant any further continuance of this disappointed inviting condition.

"So ordering cars is evening up. The automobile in this country is looked upon as a staple product, much like clothes or food. It is a necessity in modern motheds of living. For this reason there is a large and virgin field of sales up to the dealer who is alive to facts governing the case.

"Sales of cars of this type are not necessarily restricted to the centers of large population. Such a condition in the past has been brought about by the lack of facilities for bringing the purchase of such cars to the smaller localities. So in the quality car field, there is a large and undeveloped field of sales.

"In the sale of smaller cars many dealers have lost sight of the supplementary car sales where small cars, convenient to operate are being used as auxilary equipment by owners of large cars. There are many sales opportunities for every dealers in this particular class of business. This year will see many remarkable developments along these lines.

"The heavy volume of buying will come to the dealers and manufacturers who go out after the dormant demand.

"Prophhets of the law of diminishing return who are constantly talking saturation point seem to lack the true perspective which is that this country is one of such constantly enlarging opportunities that there will always be more business than can be taken care of. Public belief and confidence are the necessary factors in favor of increasing business. With these there can be no law of diminishing returns.

"Never before, in the history of the Ford Motor Co. have we made such exhaustive preparation for business as we have been making in the past few months.

"We are urging our dealers to protect themselves and future owners against a repair shortage even if face of a daily production of 6000 cars which is our plan for 1923. And we know that we are justified in this arming for the demand is going to exceed these high production figures.

Mrs. Charles A. Jensen, who has been critically ill for several days at her home on West Fifth street, was much better today, and hopes are held out for her recovery.

COMPERS AND DAVIS SAY RESTRICT IMMIGRATION

Washington, Jan. 20.—(Capital News Service).—The campaign to throw down the immigration bars and let as many immigrants come to these shores as wish to, is vigorously assailed by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who protests that there is no such shortage of labor in this country as would require a horde of foreigners to make up.

"The cry for immigration," he says, "is the cry of the profiteers and the exploiters.

"It is importane and illuminating to note those European countries in which wage standards are nearest our own, have not at any time furnished the quota of immigrants allowed to them under our present law. Only those countries where wage standards are very much lower than our own have furnished the number of immigrants permitted by the law.

"Therefore to permit a greater degree of immigration merely means a greater influx of those willing to work for lower wages and under whatever conditions may be determined by the employers alone."

Secretary Davis, of the Department of Labor, has emphatically expressed disapproval of any plan to let down the bars of immigration because of the need for labor.

He believes in selective immigration as a plan which allows only the most desirable classes of aliens to enter the United States. He has also stated his belief that many problems of immigration would be eliminated if the work of examination now done at Ellis Island was accomplished at the point of embarkation.

Car and Truck Sales

EVERYTHING POINTS TO THE GREATEST SPRING DEMAND FOR FORD PRODUCTS IN COMPANY'S HISTORY.

1,202,517 Ford Cars and Trucks were delivered to retail purchasers in the United States alone during 1922—

Actual deliveries for last month greatly exceeded any previous December in the history of the Ford Motor Company—

It was the ninth consecutive month in which more than 100,000 Ford Cars and Trucks were retailed—keeping the Ford Plants working at capacity to meet dealers' requirements—

In many parts of the country dealers are already finding it necessary to specify later delivery dates on certain types because there are no reserve stocks to draw from—

Commercial users, business houses and farmers, anticipating their future requirements, are placing orders and taking delivery of Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors to insure against delay—

Everything points to the biggest shortage of Ford Products this spring that has ever existed—

The only way you can be sure of obtaining delivery of a Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor is to list your order immediately—

We have given you these facts as they actually exist so that if you are planning to purchase a Ford Car, Truck or Tractor for use this spring or summer, you can list your order now and take advantage of our dealer's first opportunity to make delivery.

News From Over The County

Hopkins Journal.

Mrs. Azelia C. Reed, age 76 years, passed away January 10, at her home in east Hopkins. She was a daughter of the late Elder R. M. Simmons and had lived here for forty-seven years, her husband having preceded her in death some thirty years. The only near relatives left are a brother and sister, the brother being J. C. Simmons of Orrsburg, and the sister, Mrs. C. F. Cox, who had been caring for her during her last illness. Funeral services were conducted at the home January 11 by Rev. E. C. Wright, pastor of the Methodist church, and burial took place in the Hopkins cemetery.

Dr. W. N. Henson and Al Hall left last week for the Ozarks where they both looked around for a location, but of course found no place that suited them as well as Hopkins, and like the cat, they came back better satisfied with this town than before they left.

The first of December the Maxwell touring car a stranger was driving went wrong near the Wid Homes farm, northwest of Hopkins. He asked to leave the car in the yard of Mr. Holmes until he could have it repaired and nothing has been heard of the stranger since then, so it begins to look as if it might have been a stolen car as it is now nearly two months since the machine was left here.

Miss Frances Beinert of this city, was elected proctor over the third floor in North Main Dormitory at a mass meeting of the student body of William Woods College held last evening. There are ten girls chosen from the student body twice during the school session to hold the office of proctor and upon them largely depends the enforcement of the student self government rules.

Carl Burke has bought the old Dr. Sargent farm, southwest of Hopkins, and we understand will move onto same in the spring. He has been foreman of the Strickler ranch for a number of years, having worked here and elsewhere for Mr. Strickler for fourteen years.

Ravenwood Gazette.

While riding on the "Ocean Wave" at school last Thursday, Mabel Frampton, daughter of Mrs. Cornelia Frampton, had the misfortune to get the first finger of the right hand caught in the structure, breaking it above the first joint. Dr. Hunterson dressed the injured finger and it seems to be doing nicely.

At a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the American Legion held Thursday, January 11, the following officers were installed: Mrs. Roy Teaney, president; Mrs. J. D. Crawford, vice president; Mrs. Hannah Ziegler, second vice president; Miss Esther Gates, secretary; Mrs. Delia Slagle, treasurer; Mrs. Tom Johnston, sergeant at arms; Mrs. W. P. Craig, historian.

Wellington Slagle of Alton, Kansas, arrived here Wednesday evening of last week and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Slagle. This is his first visit here for some time.

The Farmers Exchange report the shipment of 83 cars of stock during the year 1922.

Elmo Register.

The alarm was given at the noon hour Tuesday that the Elmo school building was on fire, and it created great excitement for awhile. It was caused, no doubt, by a falling spark which caught in the roof and set it afire. The fire was soon extinguished with but a small loss, and was soon repaired. The house is insured.

Raymond Atherton of Elmo and Miss Mildred Taylor of Fairfax, were married Monday, January 15, 1923 at Rock Port. Mr. Atherton is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Atherton, well known farmers living on High Prairie. The young people will live on a farm in this locality.

C. L. Calfee was down town last Friday for the first time since he was hurt in the fall.

The Elmo Christian Sunday school held their annual election of officers last Sunday. Bart Monroe is the new superintendent, with H. R. Peery as assistant. Lela Spangler is secretary, Alfreda Castillo, treasurer; Leatha Castillo, pianist, with Hester Allen as assistant.

Conception Courier.

A number of boys and girls were skating on Hobbs' pond, east of Clyde, Sunday afternoon, and were engaged in a friendly scuffle over a girl's "Tam" when the ice gave way and practically all of the party went down into about eight feet of water. Only the prompt action of Leo Borgman, Joe Eckery, Harvey Richardson and Lawrence Meyer, who were near, saved the lives of the following persons: Marguerite Dunn, Eleanor Dunn, Bernice Koppen, Allie Schaaf, Leonard Schaaf, Francis Graham, Charles Broschied, Lloyd Weatherman and Guy Weatherman.

J. J. Lewis returned Friday from Minneapolis, Minn. His case against the C. G. W. Ry. for injuries received August 26, 1921, while in their service as brakeman, was settled by compromise.

A new wagon bridge has been put in across the ditch near the Kirby Grain Company's elevator, connecting the Corn Belt Place with the town proper. The work was in charge of Jas. Sheridan.

KANSAS CITY STAR TELLS OF NODAWAY COUNTY SCHOOL FILM

Last Night's Paper Contains Story of First Showing Here Thursday Night.

Maryville, Mo., Jan. 20.—The first showing of "And the Truth Shall Make You Free," the Nodaway County school film which is said to be the first of its kind ever produced in the United States, took place at the First Christian Church here Thursday night. Several hundred people from Maryville and Nodaway County attended the showing.

The school film, six thousand feet in length, was by, for and of Nodaway County. The purpose of the picture was to visualize education in this county and show the educational advantages and facilities which exist here.

A Move for Visual Education.

Nodaway County is the first county in the United States to advocate visual education. Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, who originated the idea of the motion picture, and who for the most part is responsible for its success, said: "The schools should see themselves, and movies afford the best way. We are desirous of building the very best school system possible."

The first scenes in the motion picture were taken October 11, when Maryville had its first Nodaway County school day, the first event of its kind in the state. Fifteen hundred feet of film showing seventy-eight floats and four thousand school children in a parade were taken that day. It was financed by the Maryville Chamber of Commerce. George A. Pickens, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, played a large part in taking many of the scenes.

More Than Six Thousand Appear.

The production shows scenes at nearly all of the high and grade schools and many of the rural schools in the county, and more than six thousand school children and teachers appear in it. The picture shows activities in various schools, including fire drills, vitalized agriculture and supervised play. Routine in several departments of the state teachers' college are shown. Those schools which had scenes in the picture paid for the amount of film required to show their activities.

F. R. Marcell, a photographer, made the entire picture.

At the meeting Uel W. Lamkin, president of the Northwest State Teachers' College, criticized Representative Whitecotton, who made a statement recently in the Missouri legislature that the state should practice economy, even if it had to nail up the school doors. Lamkin presented the status of education in Russia and Mexico and declared that the United States would never allow itself to drop to such a low level.

INDIANA COURT IS NO LONGER A CLUB ROOM

Smokin', Chewin', and Profanity Now Tabood with Coming of Woman Justice of Peace.

Petersburg, Ind., Jan. 20.—The "old timers" of this place whose idle hours have been spent in the local courtroom lending ear to the woes of others are dismayed to-day. For no longer can they keep time as they listen, with a "quid o' chewin'."

With the coming of feminine mastery of the court all such vices and instruments of vice as chewing, smoking and swearing are toboo. Mrs. John Grim, recently appointed a Justice of the Peace, is now running the court and, she says, "it's going to be run right!"

Chewing gum, she says will be all right, but tobacco is banned. Also, she will keep court open at all hours of the day and night to accomodate Cupid.

The following rules, which will be strictly enforced, she says, have been established:

Cuspidors are tabooed.

No smoking allowed.

Chewing of gum will be permitted.

All persons must refrain from use of profanity.

Marriages will be preformed at all hours of the night and day.

Prisoners will be treated with consideration, and no sex partiality will be shown.

DR. C. C. JAMES ATTENDS MEETING IN ST. JOE.

Calls On Bishop Quayle Who Is a Little Improved—A Special Conference Soon

Dr. C. C. James, pastor of the First M. E. Church, attended a meeting in St. Joseph yesterday. At this meeting it was decided to have the Missouri Summer School of Theology at the Missouri Wesleyan College at Cameron on July 30 to August 9.

While in St. Joseph Dr. James called on Bishop Quayle who is in a hospital in that city. Dr. James said Bishop Quayle was a little improved.

A special session of the Missouri conference is to be held at Chillicothe on January 30. The purpose of the special meeting was not stated.

A dispatch from Cincinnati, Ohio, states the report of the committee of ten on unifying the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was approved in a joint session of the two commissions and then referred back to a reorganized committee of sixteen. This committee will work out details of the plan to be submitted to another joint commission meeting, which will be held on a date to be selected later.

The committee of sixteen, composed of two bishops, three ministers and three laymen of both divisions of the church, will meet in St. Louis March 27, and endeavor to develop the details of the plan of principles submitted. Bishop William F. Anderson of Cincinnati, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, was selected as chairman of this body.

Predicts Mayor Won't Be Candidate For Re-Election, but Mayor Does Not Even Know Himself

Along with "Grape Nuts, there's a reason" and "Chesterfields, they satisfy," let us add another slogan, "Ask Gene, she knows." Miss Eugene Dennis, mind reader, exponent of mental telepathy and expert on psycho-analysis, will close her three days engagement tonight at the Empire Theater.

In her appearances, Miss Dennis has answered a number of questions. Some were right, some were wrong and some were about half-way between right and wrong.

For instance Miss Dennis predicted last night that the State Teachers College basketball team would win at Kirksville and they lost, however Miss Dennis might have gotten the high school and the College confused.

She predicted that Mayor Robinson would not be candidate for re-election and when asked about it the city manager said "If she knows that, then she knows more than I do."

Miss Dennis has been examined by experts who say that she is from 95 to 98 percent perfect, mentally.

In an interview she said that she preferred to answer business rather than personal questions; that she does not claim to tell everything but that her gift makes it possible for her to tell a number of things that the ordinary person cannot.
